

Sir,

I am a farmer's son in France, eager to learn English, and that is the reason why I'm asking for your help and advice.

I am currently in the last year of DCG (Diploma in Accounting and Finance) which corresponds to a Bac +3 (degree level) in my training, intending to continue my studies and prepare a DSCG (Higher Diploma in Accounting and Finance). To do so, fluency in everyday English is essential.

This diploma is necessary for the professional career that I would like to follow, either as a Chartered Accountant, Statutory Auditor, Judicial Agent or another equivalent profession.

In my opinion, my level of English is insufficient, that is why I would like to go to England, either to take courses or work (no compensation expected in return for the help provided). I admit that my idea remains to be defined, and it is the opportunities offered to me that will determine my choice.

I know that what I am asking you is not easy, but I am open to suggestions.

I am taking my final examinations at the end of May 2018 and I would like to complete this stay before being hired by an employer for my work-study training at the DSCG. I will be available from June to August.

I enclose my curriculum vitae on which you will find my contact details and a more detailed description of my skills and professional background.

I thank you in advance for the attention paid to my request.

Very respectfully and most cordially,

Clément BISSCHOP
